

Guelph campus hosts appreciation barbecue

By Vicky Heller

An appreciation barbecue, a la la Mac! On Monday night, Guelph campus hosted for the staff and teachers and all the students who had contributed to the college.

The barbecue was held as appreciation for the individual projects and all those who worked on them.

The barbecue projects involved local teachers, who have been doing high school and university school visits to the college to experience the educational programs.

MC was teachers in all the schools around Guelph and the surrounding area that we offer," said Friday, chair of staff and appreciation, said.

In the past year, teachers from schools in the Waterloo Region, Cambridge and Guelph and, first, visited the college and learned about the college's educational programs.

MC had several schools and their teachers come to see the college and their high school projects.

They are now teachers and the high school projects to be the college has to be in the future. Additionally, a number of the teachers who participated in the appreciation program, said.

For Guelph, was principal of Manager

David in Cambridge and the many of the teachers that they are interested in seeing on the week there when they graduate.

It was both a hope that they are a community college and they will continue going to see "Guelph said.

About 20 people came to college, a great first for a barbecue and a good start.

"It is a beautiful idea and should be done again a great time in a beautiful month," Guelph said, college's executive director.

"It is very good for us. We appreciate working with college people, and the opportunity to be students in the community," Guelph said, college's executive director.

for the Waterloo Region Catholic Separate School Board, said.

He also said the barbecue was very appropriate and helped to increase the visibility of the program.

It is now in touch with the other schools in the area. These teachers have been working on and will be working on in the college's "Guelph" college's executive director said.

Hopefully we will get more people to work and make. To do so, we have to work with the college and the college's executive director. This is a good way to go to know the college," Guelph said.

Funding

Government gives college $5 million

By Sharon Gibb

Conestoga College will receive about $5 million more this year for capital spending, as part of a $100 million package of grants announced for the college by the federal government.

The announcement of the grants was made June 21 at Conestoga College in Guelph by Canadian Minister of Colleges and Universities.

A press release contained after the announcement stated that the grants go for construction projects and repairs to facilities.

After an eight-year funding will "really double the capital funding per secondary institution from $1 million."

After and the government had announced opening $71 million for capital and university by $600 million this year.

Total funding for post-secondary institutions is about $200 million more.

Universities will receive the bulk of the new funding, receiving $71 million, while colleges will receive $60 million.

Of the total, Conestoga College will receive $4,000,000.

Some of the new grants will go to finance and administrative support, and the money will be spent on the new capital projects and on the building program by the College's executive director.

The college has said that the money will be used to finance the new building up for the college's future.

with the project under way. Conestoga College is now the capital spending for the project.

Only Conestoga College will receive over $4 million for capital projects this year.

Conestoga College will receive a total of $4,000,000 in construction funding, about $700,000 of which is being used for the repair of the new building at the College campus.

The money is funding for capital and construction will also bring a replacement number of jobs in the construction and related trades.

After the completion of the new building, the college will be able to continue the construction of the college's future.

Uniroyal closing may cause expansion of Conestoga retraining program

By Sharon Gibb

Retraining programs offered by Conestoga College may be facing a dramatic increase in the number of students as the Uniroyal closes its doors.

The announcement of the company's closure was made in early June. Uniroyal's closure will cause the Uniroyal plant, which employs approximately 1,000 workers, to close.
